
NSW Position Available

Have you found your Niche?

We all have those great days at work, but I think we can also tell the difference between when we're doing something really interesting, meaningful and rewarding, and when we are not.

If you can relate to this or ever have that nagging feeling like there should be more to it, then read on.

If you're looking to build your career and become a future leader in a well-established, national, continually evolving company, then we definitely want to hear from you. We have a position available at our Arndell Park branch. Working within the Transport, Marine and Industrial Equipment markets as specialists in control systems, we maintain 8 product categories and a diverse customer base. We want to help train you in:

- Customer service
- Business development
- Sales Management
- Managing the operations of a growth business

Which in turn all leads to the experience and qualifications required for higher level management and a clear, long term career path.

We could now talk about communication and people skills, but we are hoping that you already get that. What is important to us, is that you care about standards, want to build something worthwhile and be part of a progressive team.

You will have some life experience, be reliable and see yourself as the curious, learner type. We hope you're ambitious, with some sympathy for mechanical systems. If you do, you can contribute and build a great operation for us, and a really rewarding career for yourself.

If you can imagine yourself becoming an integral part of a company that has both solid foundations and procedures in place, but is also flexible enough to support your ideas while challenging you in a safe environment to become a craftsman at what you do, we are offering you a very unique opportunity.

What is in it for you?

- A place in an established company
- Immediate start available in the new year
- Working with a highly experienced sales team
- Structured exposure of a distribution business to a range of interesting industries
- An opportunity to develop your career with an established and growing company

Apply now and find your Niche. Tell us why you think this role would suit you by applying here.

If you'd like to find out more about Flexible Drive visit www.flexibledrive.com.au

Note: We are only accepting emailed applications and only shortlisted candidates will be contacted.

