

Technical Sales - Parts Interpreter - Auto Electrician NSW Role

Take control of your future.

Be a valued contributor with the control systems specialist.

Flexible Drive is the control systems and replacement parts specialist. We supply control systems and replacement parts to transport, marine, aviation and other heavy industries such as power stations, manufacturing plants and irrigators that allow machinery to be operated safely, efficiently, reliably and profitably. We've been around since 1939, and now have offices across all six states in Australia. We're searching for people with a desire to enhance their careers and become future leaders in a strong, established and growing company.

We are offering a chance to get off the tools and use all your automotive industry knowledge in a customer service role joining our sales team in our Arndell Park branch.

In this role your responsibilities will be:

- Providing customer service in respect of enquiries around product, pricing and availability
- Technical advice and support
- Taking and processing parts orders (via phone, email and in person)
- Ensuring accurate order entry with a focus on quality of service
- Invoicing and organising dispatch
- Carrying out storage and stock control procedures
- Building and maintaining customer relationships
- Working cohesively with other sales teams around the country, reporting to directly to the National Sales Manager (also based in NSW)

This is a position for someone looking to further develop their career.

What is in it for you?

- A place in an established company
- Immediate start available
- Working with our highly experienced sales team
- Structured exposure of a distribution business to a range of industries
- An opportunity to develop your career with an established and growing company

FlexibleDrive

If you have the following attributes we want to hear from you:

- A basic understanding of automotive products
- Strong work ethic and you're self motivated
- A logical approach to problem solving
- Able to multi-task and work under pressure
- Outgoing and friendly manner, likes dealing with people
- Enjoy learning and being challenged
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Ability to adapt and understand IT and workplace systems

Only those with experience in auto parts industries will be considered - so ideally a candidate who has experience as a parts interpreter role either in the Trade or in transport, marine or industrial or similar will be ideal. If your goal is to be recognised as a top performer and gain invaluable knowledge, then let Flexible Drive help you achieve this dream.

If you have the above attributes and are looking for a career to work within a busy environment contact Darren Bagatella on dbagatella@flexibledrive.com.au or directly online.

Note: only shortlisted candidates will be contacted but we thank you for your application
